AQUATIC FACILITIES

The Peak Health Aquatic Center at Mylan Park has seen its fair share of electrifying events since it opened in the fall of 2019. The facility has been the site of three Big 12 Conference Championships since its opening with the most recent coming in 2024.

Initial planning for the new complex began in the fall of 2015, when nine public entities, including West Virginia University, committed to collaborate in building a state-of-the-art aquatic and track complex at Mylan Park.

Recognizing the need for an Olympic-sized, 50-meter pool, the community and WVU worked together to make this possible. A $48 million facility, the Aquatic and Track Complex at Mylan Park is a community facility for all ages. It serves as the home to WVU's swimming and diving, cross country and track and field teams. Construction began on the complex in August 2017.

The aquatic facility is approximately 75,000 square-feet with a 50-meter competition pool and seating for 1,200 spectators. The aquatic center will include a diving pool and tower, a warming pool, therapeutic pool, a family water park, an outdoor sun deck, two wet classrooms, a cardio fitness room, training space, locker rooms and multipurpose rooms for meetings and special occasions.

A CHAMPIONSHIP PROGRAM

The West Virginia University men's and women's swimming and diving program remains rooted in its rich tradition of developing high-caliber athletes to compete at the highest level of collegiate swimming in the United States.

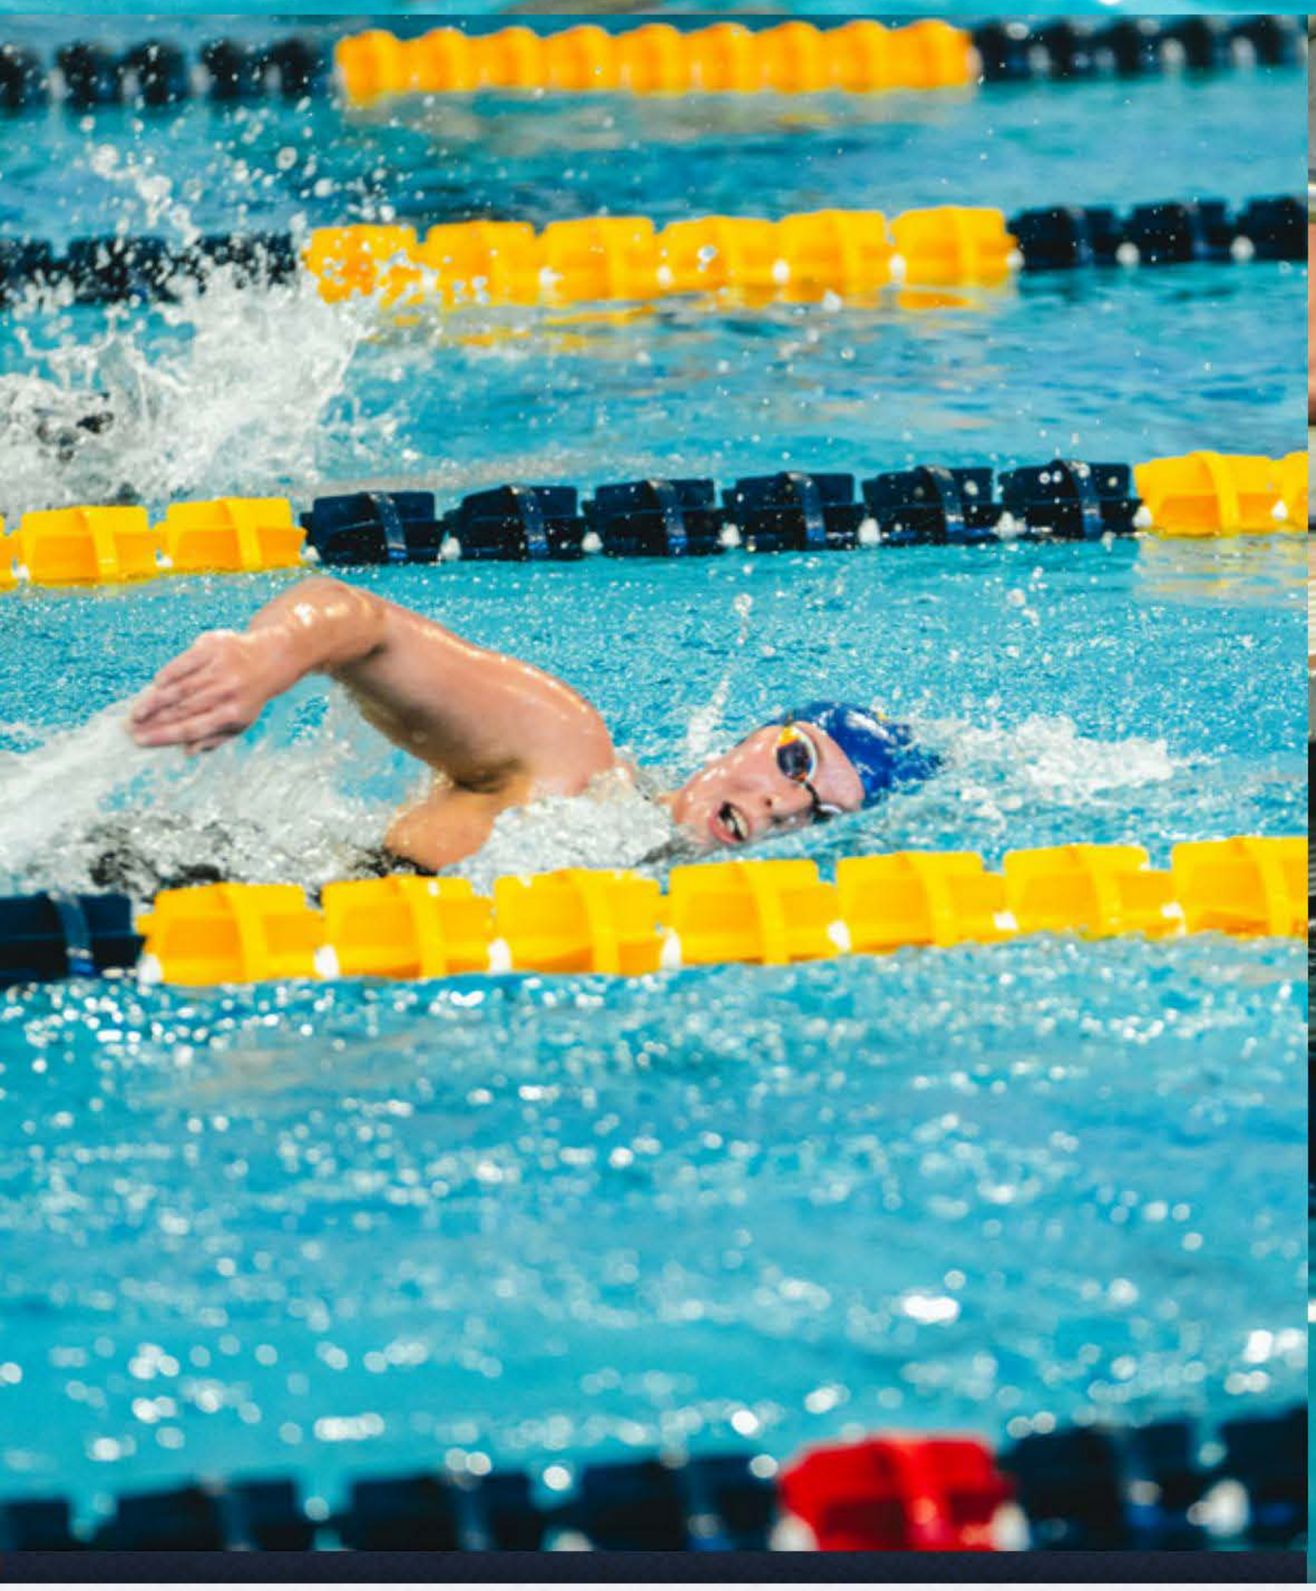
Throughout its history, the WVU swimming and diving program has produced 118 NCAA qualifiers, 59 All-Americans and 17 Big 12 Conference champions.

Most recently, sophomore diver Owen Recker represented West Virginia at the 2025 Division I Men's Swimming and Diving Championships in Federal Way, Washington. Recker competed on the men's 3-meter and platform. He was the first male WVU diver to compete at the NCAA Championships since 2022.

At the 2025 Big 12 Swimming and Diving Championships, redshirt senior Danny Berlitz, senior Justin Heimes and senior Miranda Kirtley each earned individual medals for WVU. Berlitz earned bronze in the 200-yard backstroke, Heimes placed fourth in the 100-yard backstroke and Kirtley placed fifth in the women's 1650-yard freestyle.

While having success in the pool, West Virginia also has tremendous success in the classroom. Eight Mountaineers were named to the 2024-25 College Sports Communicators Academic All-District Team. Sophomore Owen Recker, juniors Abigail Sullivan, Elysa Grossman and Max Nielsen, seniors Mia Walters, Sarah Krusinski, Hayden Apel and Heimes represented WVU on the team.

Six Mountaineers were also named Scholar All-Americans by the College Swimming and Diving Coaches Association of America (CSCAA). Recker, Sullivan, Krusinski, Heimes, Kirtley and senior Conner McBeth earned the honor from the CSCAA.



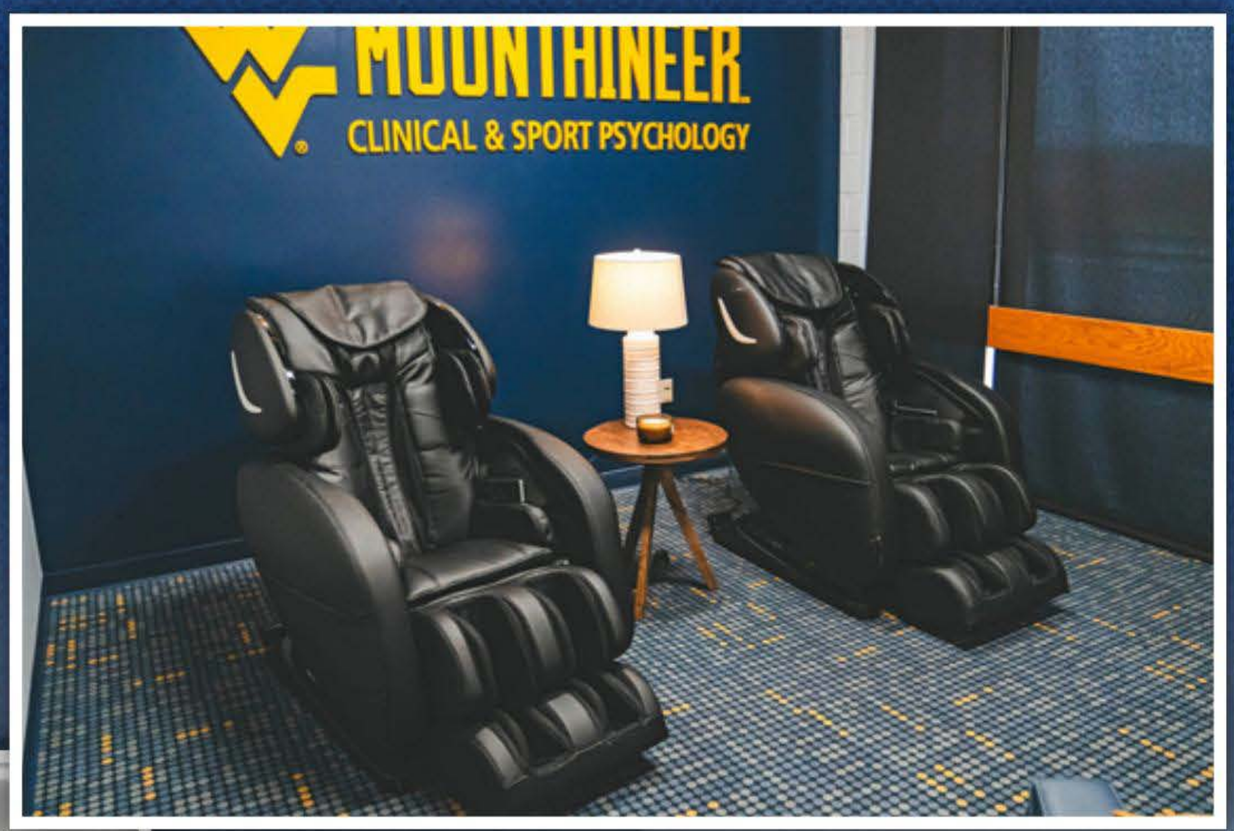
ATHLETIC TRAINING

The West Virginia University athletic training program looks to get its student-athletes back in a timely manner while providing quality health care for its student-athletes and coaches.

The Athletic Performance Center houses the athletic training program, providing the athletic training staff and WVU student-athletes with a quality facility to focus on their needs.

The scope of the athletic training services encompasses various domains, which include injury recognition, treatment, rehabilitation, prevention, education and counseling that enables each student-athlete to maintain optimal quality of life beyond the span of athletic competition.

The athletic training staff works side by side with the team physicians and athletic administration to assure that the student-athletes receive quality care throughout their career at WVU.



STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

Athletic excellence and strength and conditioning go hand-in-hand at West Virginia University. WVU's strength and conditioning staff ensures that all student-athletes are on year-long programs designed to continue improving the fitness capabilities needed in their sports.

The Athletic Performance Center provides student-athletes with top-quality equipment to hone their skills while at WVU. The strength and conditioning staff at WVU remains one of the best in the country, specializing in an array of strength programs to help athletes continue to improve and remain in peak physical condition.

At WVU, student-athletes can rest assured that their strength staff is monitoring their performance on a daily basis.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Student-athletes at West Virginia University play a pivotal role in this state's tradition. Without a professional sports team, West Virginia residents look to WVU for athletic excellence and success.

When individuals choose to become Mountaineers, they represent themselves, the school, and the state of West Virginia. That makes representing the Gold and Blue special for past and future student-athletes.

On a regular basis, student-athletes interact with family, friends, alumni, news media and fans. Through these interactions, those student-athletes have unique experiences that shape their time at WVU.

The environment at West Virginia University is what makes it such a special experience for student-athletes who come from all over the country and the world.

ACADEMICS

Those who choose to represent West Virginia University as student-athletes are committed to their athletic careers as well as their academic careers. West Virginia University offers a variety of services and programs to help student-athletes maximize their academic potential. Department staff members work with coaches, on-campus student service providers and faculty to help student-athletes meet the unique demands of the classroom and their sport. Eight swimmers were selected to the College Sports Communicators Academic All-District Team in 2025. Six swimmers were named Scholar All-Americans by the College Swimming and Diving Coaches Association of America (CSCAA).

SEASON PREVIEW

SITTING IN AN office at the WVU Coliseum surrounded by shoe boxes, heavy winter coats, Nike bags and a 2007 Big East Championship trophy, Brent MacDonald sits at his computer planning his day, his week, his year.

It's just after 11 a.m. and the second-year head swimming and diving coach is sipping on his drink of choice, Dr. Pepper Zero. For MacDonald, the first year in his new role at West Virginia was one of learning and growing.

Throughout last summer, MacDonald focused on connecting with the returning student-athletes and constructing a coaching staff. He emphasized the importance of building relationships with a roster that was filled with a mix of veterans and young swimmers.

"At this point in my career, the first season was the largest learning curve I've had in a while," MacDonald said. "It was good and motivating and really positive in a lot of different ways. [I took time] to learn about how a program that I didn't build operated and how we could mold it into what we wanted it to be.

"Along with that, we had the opportunity to coach a lot of swimmers who were finishing out their careers, who did not start with us. That presented its own challenges, but I think we all enjoyed that piece of it, too."

MacDonald's arrival on campus did not occur until June, and he entered his office without a staff in place. That became his first priority while also developing a "recruiting board" and connecting with the team already in place for the 2024-25 season.

"Where you're at in the recruiting cycle at that point (June), you should be looking ahead to two years or whatever class is going to open up [for recruitment] on June 15," MacDonald said. "To start, essentially two weeks before that timeframe, knowing that we didn't have a class for 2025 was interesting. It was definitely a challenge.

"To do that without all the staff here yet, or weeks away from the staff being here, was a major challenge. You're trying to set certain standards in place. You're trying to figure out all these different processes that you haven't done before. Nothing comes easy."

Like any season, MacDonald's first in Morgantown had its highs and lows. The men's and women's swimming and diving teams faced stiff competition in a road dual meet against Kentucky while also hosting a litany of strong teams at the WVU Invitational. Following winter break, the Mountaineers returned to the pool in January, facing Penn State and Pitt on the road.

A trip to Federal Way, Washington, placed the Mountaineers in a pool competing against powerhouse swim programs such as Arizona State and Arizona at the Big 12 Swimming and Diving Championships.

A ninth-place finish by the women's team and a seventh-place finish by the men's team put an end to MacDonald's first season on the pool deck. Two weeks later, sophomore Owen Recker became the first male Mountaineer diver to qualify for the NCAA Championships since 2022.

He was the only student-athlete on either team to qualify for the NCAA Championships.

Fast forward to August 2025, and MacDonald and the staff are poised with a rebuilt roster to make significant jumps from 2024.

"I don't think until we got to the spring we realized how crazy it really was," MacDonald said about last season. "We felt good about where our 2026 class was; we felt really good about planning for the 2027 class. I think it was almost comical to think back about where we were last year and how far behind we were."

Despite all the adjustments he made throughout his first season, MacDonald personally feels good about how he handled things with the returning student-athletes and setting up the program for the future.

"I think I was doing a better job than I realized at cultivating leadership and taking certain individuals from their freshman year to their senior year to really be great leaders and keep our team going in the right direction," MacDonald said. "You realize how much work you really have to put in during a four-year career to get them to that place of being the right human being you want them to be."

MacDonald made the move to Morgantown after 16 years as head coach at Xavier in Cincinnati. His wife, Krista, a Cincinnati native, and his three kids, Carys, Teague and Everly, have embraced their new home in the hills.

"Whenever you're moving kids, it's always hard," MacDonald said. "My wife left the place she grew up in and lived most of her life. We were probably two or three miles from her childhood home. It was a change everyone was ready for, whether they knew it or not."

Despite becoming Mountaineers, MacDonald said his oldest daughter does occasionally wear Xavier gear.

"It's so funny because I've always been that 'all in' person," MacDonald said. "Xavier will always keep a special place in our hearts because we were there for so long. I rolled in a big suitcase on my last day and gave it to our assistants to dive into all the gear I had collected because I was ready to turn over a new leaf.

"I want to always give 100% to wherever I am going; that must become my identity. I would say my son was really good at that. He switched over very quickly. He has all the West Virginia gear he can find, and that's all he's going to wear right now."

Heading into his second season, MacDonald expects growth and commitment from his team, so they can represent the program and university at the highest level.

"My general expectation is growth and just the overall commitment to being the type of athlete that West Virginia University deserves," MacDonald said. "We have been invested at a high level, and that comes with a level of responsibility. That's our expectation. We have a huge group of newcomers who have heard this messaging over and over again. Our returners have heard it for the last year.

"It takes a lot to get better in this sport. Unfortunately, it's just like most things; it's not glorious. It's just hard work."

WVU PRESIDENT MICHAEL T. BENSON

@MICHAELTBENSON

Michael T. Benson, a veteran higher education administrator, became the 27th president of West Virginia University on July 15, 2025. He brings three decades of academic and administrative experience in higher education to his role leading West Virginia's flagship, land-grant, R1 institution into a new era.

WVU is Benson's fifth presidency. Prior to his arrival at Coastal Carolina in 2021, Benson led Snow College, Southern Utah University, and Eastern Kentucky University. During his tenure at Coastal Carolina, Benson secured a $10 million gift, the largest in the school's history. He worked closely with community partners and policymakers to advance initiatives there, including the successful renewal of a local option penny sales tax to support public and higher education through the year 2039, the only tax of its kind in all of South Carolina.

In 2024, under his leadership, Coastal Carolina enrolled its largest number of students ever - 11,225 - while also setting a record retention rate.

As the 14th president of Snow College in Ephraim, Utah, he helped raise more private money for the institution during his tenure than had been secured in the previous 115 years of the college's history combined.

Appointed at age 36, Benson was the youngest college president in the history of the Utah System of Higher Education.

Benson has also held faculty appointments at the University of Utah, the University of Notre Dame, and Johns Hopkins University, and has taught at each institution where he served as president, including Coastal Carolina where he was a professor of history.

His scholarly work has focused on the development of the research university and its impact on society. Benson's book, "Daniel Coit Gilman and the Birth of the American Research University," was released by Johns Hopkins University Press in 2022. He was a visiting professor in the Department of the History of Science and Technology at Johns Hopkins in 2020. Benson's biography of Gilman was named to the list of Best Higher Education Books of 2023 by Forbes magazine.

Benson is also the author of "Harry S. Truman and the Founding of Israel," and, with co-author Hal Boyd, published "College for the Commonwealth: A Case for Higher Education in American Democracy" with the University Press of Kentucky.

Nationally, Benson serves on the Council of Presidents of the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges. He also is the past board chair of Omicron Delta Kappa, the national leadership honor society and is the former chair of the NCAA Honors Committee.

Benson is sought after for public speeches and appearances. He was a featured contributor to the Huffington Post for 5 years; has written articles for The Jerusalem Post, Lexington Herald-Leader, Louisville Courier Journal, The Kansas City Star, Deseret News, and The Salt Lake Tribune, among others; and appeared on ESPN's The Paul Finebaum Show.

Born in Utah and raised in Texas and Indiana, Benson has worked and studied abroad for nearly 7 years in Italy, England, and Israel. He graduated cum laude with a bachelor's degree in political science and double minors in English and history from Brigham Young University in 1990. He completed his doctorate in modern history from the University of Oxford (St. Antony's College) in 1995, where he was a Rotary Foundation Scholar and recipient of the Oxford Graduate Overseas Fellowship.

He also earned a master's degree cum laude in nonprofit administration in 2011 from the University of Notre Dame Mendoza College of Business, where he was the recipient of the prestigious Father Theodore Hesburgh Founder's Award. Benson graduated with a Master of Liberal Arts from Johns Hopkins University in August 2021 and was elected to the Honor Society of the Association of Graduate Liberal Studies Programs.

An accomplished athlete, President Benson played basketball at BYU and Oxford, and his best marathon time – 2 hours and 41 minutes – won his age division in the St. George (Utah) Marathon. He also finished among the top 25% of all runners in the 1984 Boston Marathon, one of only 19 teenagers from around the world to compete in the race.

An avid traveler, he has visited all 50 states and five of the seven continents.

He and his wife, Debi, are the parents of three children – Truman, Tatum, and Talmage. He also has two older children from a previous marriage. Emma is a TV reporter for KSL in Salt Lake City, Utah, and Samuel writes for Politico in Washington, D.C. Sam's wife, Keylla, is in her first year at Georgetown Law School.

WVU VICE PRESIDENT/DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS
WREN BAKER

The Baker Family: Reagan, Addisyn, Heather and Wren

Wren Baker has changed the face of West Virginia University Athletics. He has reenergized the department and set it up for long-term success in the ever-changing world of college athletics.

Whether it's coaching searches, facility master plans, revenue sharing or a modern, business-like approach to Name, Image and Likeness, Baker has faced every challenge head on and has never looked back. He has brought new thinking and confidence to WVU Athletics, and his reputation across the country is second-to-none.

Baker is a high-energy leader, and Mountaineer success has been contagious in competition and in the classroom. Conference championships, NCAA appearances and a national championship have been followed by strong academic achievement for Mountaineer student-athletes, eclipsing previous department GPA highs. Under Baker, WVU has also turned in record fundraising numbers as his forward thinking and strategic planning are geared to bringing future success and revenue stability to the state's Land-Grant Institution.

Baker was an instant hit with WVU fans. In his first year in Morgantown, he traveled the state to learn its culture, geography, and history. He has met and listened to Mountaineer fans from all over the world and immersed himself on what it means to be a proud West Virginian. The results of his approach and work ethic speak volumes as the West Virginia Mountaineers continue to be a national brand.

Despite accomplishing so much in a short period of time, Baker's plate is still full. Continued revenue generation, launching an NIL full-service business agency for student-athlete advancement and premium seating options in his two major sports venues are still on his radar for the coming year. His endless energy never stops moving WVU forward.

Then WVU President E. Gordon Gee named Baker as WVU's vice president and director of intercollegiate athletics on Nov. 30, 2022. He has oversight of 18 varsity sports, a department budget of more than $90 million, approximately 250 employees and nearly 500 student-athletes.

Baker is WVU's 13th director of athletics and came to Morgantown from the University of North Texas, where he had been the associate vice president and athletics director since 2016. With previous stops at Missouri, Memphis, Northwest Missouri and Rogers State, he brought more than 20 years of experience to WVU.

At North Texas, seven Mean Green programs combined to win 17 conference or division championships during Baker's tenure. UNT also reached new heights in the classroom under Baker's leadership, posting its top APR scores and four consecutive department Graduation Success Rate (GSR) records. Baker led record fundraising years at North Texas, and the overall top five largest gifts ever at UNT came under Baker's leadership.

Prior to North Texas, Baker was the deputy director of athletics at Missouri from 2015 to 2016, serving as the top advisor and chief of staff.

Before Missouri, he spent time at Memphis from 2013-15 as deputy athletics director.

From 2011-13, Baker was athletics director at NCAA Division II power Northwest Missouri State. From 2006-11, Baker served as the first athletics director at Rogers State in Claremore, Oklahoma, where he was also the school's first men's basketball coach. His team went 20-11 in his only season at the helm, and during his tenure, he developed a full-scale, competitive collegiate athletics program. In 2005, he was the principal and athletics director for Valliant Public Schools, and at age 26, was the youngest principal in Oklahoma history.

Originally from Valliant, Oklahoma, Baker earned his bachelor's degree in education from Southeastern Oklahoma State in 2001 where he was a member of the honors program. He went on to earn his master's degree in education leadership from Oklahoma State in 2003.

While at Oklahoma State, Baker was a graduate assistant and basketball operations assistant for the Cowboys' men's basketball program under legendary head coach Eddie Sutton. During his time with OSU, the Cowboys posted a 102-30 record, reaching four NCAA tournaments with trips to the 2004 Final Four and the 2005 Sweet 16.

Baker and his wife, Heather, a Bokchito, Oklahoma, native, have two daughters, Addisyn and Reagan.
